Little Social Attractions in the '80's

there was no mud, there was dust there was no mud, there was dust if a farmer had a member of his ture that there were those within family taken sick at night, he had to hitch up to the light wagon and drive to town for the doctor, possibly to find him away up in another section of the country caring for another sufferer. Now, he but takes the phone, learns that his doctor has gone to Little Bow to Hi Smith's, calls the Smith house, and the doctor is there within an hour. And with all this the farmer who pays to grumble, but they are not the minor telephone bills is inclined to grumble, but they are not the bring the old time doctor.

There are many who will read this story that know what it was to tramp to Gouverneur to the Semin-to the nearest school in winter, to tramp to Gouverneur to the Seminary as Frank Babcock did, but he was only a mile out of town, there are others who walked farther. The Misses Dean, drove old Fanny hitched to a mud bespattered buck-board from their home down at Natural Dam. And so I could name a long I referred. I did not see one child number of other people who got their education by use of their feet as well as their heads.

It was Ruskin who said—"Flowers made, and forgot to put a soul into."

And now to Mr. and Mrs. Martindele, I wish to express my appreciation.

During the visiting days, to which leave the garden without being given flowers. I am sure that many grownas their heads.

It is now for me to look back and see how much harder it was for those out of town young people to get to the old seminary than it was for gifts of yours.

It is now for me to look back and see how much harder it was for those out of town young people to get to the old seminary than it was for me. And yet I used to think it pretty hard to have a clean face and get to morning prayers and only two blocks away. I am satisfied that I may be to many therefore I will sign myself as one of those who have seen and enjoyed.

I would like to add this: that any one who wishes to read a fine any one who wishes to read a fine blocks away. I am satisfied that I didn't have much the spirit of Paul Revere as applied to going for an education. As I look over the years spent in the business world, I find that there are about as many fellows back of dress goods counters who have been pushed through college. as there are sitting at mahogany desks directing the destinies of large corporations. This is not a crack against a liberal education. It is just a recital of facts as they are. We have here in South Bend, Notre Dame university. Some four thousand students attend. It is a sure thing that the young Notre Dame student who can get to be half-back on the foot ball team, will have no difficulty in landing a desirable position when he graduates, but for Clarence with the quiet dreamy eyes, his mind on the classics. In this era of the wiping out of distance, the electric age; the telephone; the radio; the automobile; have put us in touch with the world at large. The former lonesome farmhouse, with your neighbor out of sight, over the hill a half mile away, is no longer, as of old. There was little social attraction for the young people who lived up in Hermon, in Fine, in Fowler, in Pitcairn, down on the Rock Island road, and in many places but a few miles from pure white through the road.

Mrs. Bresee is the wife of Stephen K. Bresee, head of the Bresee-Chevrolation for the young tors, with plant at 400-404 West Wilevery orchid tint, then ending at the low street. 20,000 QUARTS OF LIQUOR SMASHED BY FEDERAL OFFICERS

FEDERAL OFFICERS

Twenty thousand quarts of ale, wine and beer, a small fraction of the liquor held in Federal custody in Malone, accumulated from daily seizures by officers along the border territory, were destroyed Friday under the direction of the U.S. Customs officials in Malone.

This great amount of thirst-quencher was officially smashed at a point on the Wilcox farm a short distance south of Malone village, where previous consignments of seized liquors have been destroyed by the officials in months past. There are large rocks there which make convenient targets for the bottles of liquor and the work of smashing the 20,000 quarts was completed in record time.

il $10,000, based upon statements in a newspaper advertisement which the plaintiff alleges were libelous and injurious to his business. The parties have engaged counsel to foot after their respective interests, and if the case reaches the trial coury and interesting session is expected. The suit is the sequel to two complaints made by customers of one barber that he was overcharged but each time the case was dismissed when the barber submitted his schedule of prices and showed the complainant had paid no more than others. The rival tonsorialist then inserted an ad in tonsorialist then inserted an ad in the paper which said among other things that his service "did not end in the courtroom." This the plain-tiff contends is libelous per se.
